Robert Lanz

Visual Artist · Berlin

Robert Lanz lives and works in Berlin. His practice centres on experimental painting, paper works, sculptural objects, and installation, grounded in material research and physical-chemical processes. Trained at the Berlin University of the Arts under Professor Leiko Ikemura, he completed his postgraduate Meisterschüler degree with distinction in 2013.

His work investigates interactions of matter, light, surface, and time — treating the canvas as laboratory and the surface as event space. Materials such as copper, magnetite, epoxy resin, and crushed minerals undergo chemical reactions, crystallise, and generate fields in which structure and dissolution remain inseparably intertwined.
